

Accessibility statement

Ford2Go is committed to creating a website that is accessible to everyone, regardless of ability. Our accessibility efforts are based on the European Accessibility Act (EAA) and the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG). By adhering to these standards, we strive to ensure an inclusive digital environment that meets the needs of all users.

Accessibility status

ford2go.se is partially compatible with the law.

We acknowledge the following accessibility issues

- Document doesn't have a title element
- Some links do not have a discernible name
- Background and foreground colors do not have a sufficient contrast ratio
- Some form elements do not have associated labels
- Keyboard navigation does not work satisfactorily
- Broken aria references

Action plan

These issues will be addressed in a future update.

Testing and evaluation of accessibility

Accessibility has been assessed through internal manual testing by our organization and automated tools such as Lighthouse and Wave.

Reporting issues

If you discover any problems not described in this statement or believe that we do not meet legal requirements, please contact us at accessibility@hedinmobilitygroup.com.

Supervision

If you are not satisfied with how we handle your feedback, you can contact the Swedish Agency for Digital Government (DIGG): <https://www.digg.se>

Statement published: [Insert date here]

Last updated: [Insert date here]